CONSTRUYENDO PUENTES ENTRE INVESTIGACION Y PRACTICA
Oviedo, del 17 al 19 de octubre de 2012

HARRIET WARD

University of Loughborough

England

Professor Harriet Ward is Director of the Centre for Child and Family Research (CCFR) at Loughborough University, UK and co-director of the government-funded Childhood Wellbeing Research Centre – a partnership between the Institute of Education, University of London, Loughborough University and PSSRU, University of Kent. She has over 20 years experience both as a research director and field researcher, as an adviser to policymakers and service providers, and as a social work practitioner.

Harriet's leadership of the Looking After Children project (1993-2001) had considerable influence on the development of government policy and practice concerning looked after children in the UK and abroad. It also led to a number of research initiatives, which informed the development of the CCFR programme of research on outcomes for vulnerable children; a key feature has been the innovative work on calculating costs of children's services. Harriet has recently completed a major research study on infants suffering, or likely to suffer significant harm and co-authored Safeguarding Children Across Services: Messages from Research on Identifying and Responding to Child Maltreatment, the Overview of the Department of Health and Department for Education funded Safeguarding Children Research Initiative.
